

Thank you for your commitment to defending the sanctity of life. Starting a pro-life organization within your church and community is a powerful way to advocate for the unborn.

Here are step-by-step instructions to help you get started:

1. Form a Planning Committee

- Identify and invite passionate and dedicated members of your congregation to join a planning committee.
- Hold an initial meeting to discuss the vision, goals, and structure of the pro-life organization.

2. Schedule the First Meeting

- Set a date, time, and location for the first official meeting.
- Publicize the meeting through church announcements, bulletins, and social media.

3. Hold the First Meeting

- Begin with a prayer and an introduction of the organization's mission and goals.
- Present the importance of the pro-life cause and the role of the church in this mission.
- Encourage attendees to share their ideas and suggestions.
- Assign initial tasks such as:
 - Communications: Someone to handle announcements, newsletters, and social media.
 - Event Planning: A team to organize educational events, prayer vigils, and community outreach.
 - Volunteer Coordination: A person to recruit and manage volunteers for various activities.

4. Plan Ongoing Activities and Events

- Organize regular meetings to plan and review activities.
- Schedule educational seminars, guest speakers, and film screenings to raise awareness.
- Plan community outreach programs such as support for expectant mothers, adoption information sessions, and prayer vigils.

5. Connect with National Right to Life

- Reach out to National Right to Life for resources, training, and ongoing support.
- Utilize their materials and expertise to strengthen your organization's impact.

Starting a pro-life organization in your church and community is a vital step in protecting the most vulnerable among us. Your leadership and dedication can make a significant difference.

Thank you for your unwavering commitment to the pro-life cause.
