Planned Parenthood

Though officially designated as a non-profit, Planned Parenthood has found the abortion business very profitable.

Close to half (46.5%) of PPFA's income comes in the form of "Government Health Services Grants and Reimbursements."

– PPFA Annual Report 2009-10

Though it complains about funding cuts, government funding for PPFA has increased in every fiscal year at least as far back as 1998.

– PPFA Annual Reports, 1998-2010

Planned Parenthood reports spending an average of $93.9 million in federal funds a year from 2002 through 2008.

– GAO report, 5/28/10

State funding was responsible for 177,404 U.S. abortions as recently as 2006. Many of these were certainly done at PPFA clinics. The states funding the most abortions in 2001 were:

1. California ... 94,602
2. New York ... 34,824
3. Washington ... 15,510
4. New Jersey 9,918
5. Massachusetts .. 4,800

– AGI, "Public Funding..," 1/08

Even when it is specified that funds are not to be used for abortion, that money frees up other funds for abortion performance and advocacy.

That's the way the money goes...

- "Medical Services" ($683.7 million).
- "Sexuality Education" ($52.8 mil) includes programs for schools, churches, rehab centers.
- "Public Policy"($55.8 mil) includes fighting pro-life laws, lobbying for pro-abortion health-care reform, protecting government funding.
- "Services to the Field of Family Planning" ($19.4 mil) includes developing standards.
- "Service to Affiliates" ($46 million) includes "advances in abortion service delivery," website with info on locating clinics, setting appointments, legally circumventing parental involvement laws, political mobillization.
- "International Family Planning Programs" ($6.2 mil) includes international lobbying for "access to safe abortion," "increasing support for decriminalizing abortion"
- Admin, Fundraising, Other ($170.4 million)

Abortion Income

The average cost a woman paid for a standard first trimester suction curettage abortion in the U.S. in 2008 was $451.

– Persp Sexual & Repro Health, 3/11

If every PPFA abortion were a standard first trimester suction abortion, PPFA's income from the 329,445 abortions it performed in 2010 would have been about $148.6 million.

PPFA clinics advertise and perform more expensive chemical and later term abortions, indicating abortion income is almost certainly higher than $148.6 million.

–e.g., www.pphouston.org, 3/20/08
www.ppct.org, 3/19/08

$148.6 million represents at least 18% of what PPFA identifies as is its"non-governmental health services revenue" and "government health services grants and reimbursements," though the latter includes educational and other funds that are not for direct patient services.
